But the young engineer doesnt feel happy at all . “ A heavy workload ,fierce competition and rising living expenses keep me working 1 the clock , ” said the 35-year-old . “ I wish I could go back to my university days ,even though I had far less 2 then. ” Zhang is not the only one who doesnt feel as 3 as before .

“ It is a time when money cant buy happiness, ” said Andrew Oswald,a British economist studying happiness . His research shows that 4 society has become more prosperous and technically advanced in Western countries ,life 5 has not improved over the last 30 years . Oswalds theory 6 true in China too . 7 one of the worlds most robust (有活力的)economies ,China 8 8-10 per cent annual GDP growth . But according to a March survey by China Youth Daily and Sina . com , around 85 per cent of Chinese people feel heavier living burdens than 10 years ago 9 the fact that nearly 80 per cent say their incomes have increased . “ Traditional measurements of progress , which heavily 10 the economic over the social ,are becoming outmoded (过时的), ” said Oswald . He explained that in the 1940s,when people were struggling to 11 themselves ,growth was needed to 12 the basics. But things have become totally different now . A lot of people dont want a wider TV or more clothes 13 they need a pleasing environment or a light -hearted party . So “ we should 14 less on GDP ,but more on GWB , 15 general well-being , ” said Oswald . Canadian ,British ,and northern European governments have created their own quality of life indexes (指数)that include crime ,health ,environmental ,and cultural 16 . In China , “ happiness index ” has also become a buzz phrase (热门词汇) 17 the attention of economists and politicians . “ Not only the government but we citizens should adjust the 18 of self-development to make ourselves happier , ” said Yuan Yue ,a Chinese sociologist . Dont just chase money or fame . Make sure you have time to 19 . Then youll be 20 ,he added .

(二) 考试大 www.100test.com I dont like Womens Day ,because I

, now only 21, was blessed with Happy Womens Day on March 8 by several friends jokingly or not . Dont always think celebration is 1 . For me ,this blessing means : I am not so 2 as a young girl . And that is too bad ! Nowadays , womens status is higher and higher . In order to show 3 to women and celebrate this important fact ,the International Womens Day 4 . It is a very good thing to remind people of 5 between men and women . But for the celebration , I dont 6 .Because if women and men are 7 to be equal ,why we women need the celebration 8 men neednt ? Because they dont have mens day or they dont need ? This is unfair to men and women ,isnt it ? The womens celebration 9 the very thing , the exact thing that men and women are 10 ! Because the newborn baby boy now and man in the future will be 11 by the fact : 12 only women have the celebration ? It is so unfair !And the newborn baby girl today and woman in future will think it is so 13 that :we women are born to be delicate(纤弱的)and 14 !We have our day celebrated ! 15 the day they learn that women were considered as inferior(地位低的)in the old times can they understand why we have womens day . Yes , it is worthwhile to remember that we have this big 16 that men and women become equal . But , celebration can be omitted because just I have already said : 17 men and women are born to be equal it is 18 .and when the womens day becomes a memorized day , 19 will bless me 20 .Happy Womens Day !
