there is not much difference in British and American English except that the Americans have improvised it wherever they could to look different. Ex. If in British English u hire a Taxi, u hire a cab in USA. I shall give u a few more examples. British English: ( See the difference in the use of tense) Riya is not at home. She has gone shopping. American English: Riya isnt at home. she went for shopping. In British English, the correct present perfect tense has been used but the Americans have improvised to their convenience and made it past indefinite tense. Here r some more examples for u to study in vocabulary especially. British English American English at the weekend on the weekend live in X street live on X street a player in the team a player on the team Monday to Thursday Monday through Thursday ten minutes past six ten minutes after six five minutes to ten five minutes of ten analyse analyze cheque check (money) centre center colour color defence defense dialogue dialog honour honor jeweller jeweler programme program metre meter realise realizes skilful skilfull theatre theater traveller traveler Aeroplane Airplane angry mad anywhere any place biscuit cookie/cracker There r numerous examples with me which distinguish between British English and American English. In accent, the use of the vowel a is made 90% as in ash, bash. In British English there are twenty vowels (speech sounds) but in American English there r only five speech sounds. This is how they have made English more easy, useful and practical. U may post ur specific queries and I shall try to give u the best answer to the best of my ability. 100Test 下载频道开通 , 各类考试题目直接下载。详细请访问 www.100test.com
