The Lung Association says parents should take the time to talk to their __1__ and explain the facts about SARS and how to avoid illness. The following is based on recommendation __2__ Thursday by the Lung Association:-- Ask your children if they have heard __3__ SRS at school, from friends, from TV, etc. finding out what they already know can be a good __4__ to start the conversation and to dispel any misconceptions they might have about the illness and how it is spread.-- School age children are usually old __5__ to understand concepts such as getting sick from germs and how to avoid illness. A simple reminder __6__ to cough on people and to wash their hands often may be sufficient for younger kids. All children should be shown how to __7__ their hands properly.-- Remember to keep it simple so __8__ not to overwhelm children with information, but answer them truthfully. Kids can tell when youre not being honest or if youre hiding something, and sometimes the unknown can be scarier than the __9__. Parents with anxious children will know __10__ their kids will handle information on SRAS and can tailor their discussion accordingly.-- One way to explain the illness is to tell children that SARS is like a bad breathing problem. It is ___11___ from a cold, but people can catch it in the same ways -- such as coughing on someone, not washing your hands or sharing a glass with a sick person.-- Describe how SARS is spread, but mention that the chance of ___12___ SARS is small. There is no reason to tell children people are dying of SRAS ___13___ they ask. Never use the threat of death as a way to remind kids to wash their hands.-- Children should be encouraged to trust ___14___ parents and other caregivers. Explain that many smart people, ___15___ doctors and scientists, are working on the problem and looking out for everyones health.
