Every normal person is expert with (1) __ The skill of pronouncing his own language ; but few people are even moderately proficient at pronouncing foreign languages. Now there many reasons this , some obvious , some perhaps not so obvious. But I suggest (2) __ that the fundamental reason which people in general do not speak (3) __ foreign languages very much better than they do are that they never (4) __ fail grasp the true nature of the problem of learning to pronounce , (5) __ and consequently never set to tackling it in the right way. Far (6) __ too many people fail to realize that pronouncing a foreign language is a skill one needs careless training of a special kind , (7) __ and one that cannot be acquired by just leaving it to take care of itself. I think even teachers of language , while recognizing the importance of a good accent , tend to neglect , in their practical teaching , the branch of study concerning with (8) __ speaking the language. So the first point which I want to make is (9) __ that English pronunciation must be taught ; the teacher should be prepared to devote some of the lesson time to this , and by his whole attitude to the subject should get the student to feel that here is a matter worthy receiving his close attention.
