In general, Asia still constitutes the most economic energy with the development potential. Deep development of economic globalization and vast improvement of science and technology contribute to Asian countries ' making use of foreign capital, importing advance technology, developing international market and promoting the development of national economy. However, security situation in some part of Asia still remains unoptimistic and the fight against terrorism still needs to be implemented thoroughly. Economic globalization has brought development opportunity, while at the same time what have been increased are uncertainty on international economy situation, the difficulty on economy adjustment within local development and the risk of encountering foreign impact.
