The title was formerly held by Chicago ' s 110-story Sears Tower. Its status had been left unchallenged for 22 years. Buildings in the United States have held the title since 1913 , but the need for space has created a skyscraper boom in Asia. According to one building expert , "the ball has started rolling in Asia." However , some experts think that building super-tall skyscrapers is not a matter of economics but ego. Every architect wants to have the honor of having the tallest building in the world. When the planned 1509-foot Shanghai World Financial Center is finished in a couple of years , it will be China ' s turn to have that honor. 100Test 下载频道开通 , 各类考试题目直接下载。详细请访问 www.100test.com
