https://www.100test.com/kao_ti2020/139/2021_2022__E5_BE_AE_ E8_BD_AF_E8_B5_84_E6_c100_139487.htm 42. an employee named will at your company has dexterity problems. you configure a windows 2000 professional computer to use an on-screen keyboard and you enable sticky key options. you save these options to a shared folder on his local drive. another employee named scott needs his same configuration. you log into scott's computer and access will's shared folder. what should you immediately do next? a. copy the .acw file to the c:\documents and settings\default user folder. b. import the .acw file into scott's registry. c. import the .acw file using the utility manager on scott's computer. d. change the permissions of the .acw file on the network share to allow access to scott's user account. answer d 43. you install windows 2000 on a portable computer that is configured for advanced power management (apm). when shutting down, the windows 2000 shut down screen remains on the screen and the computer does not shut down. what must you do? a. restart the computer and disable apm in the bios. b. restart the computer and enable hibernation support under power options. c. restart the computer and enable apm under power options. d. restart the computer and create a different power scheme under power options. answer b 44. you create a roaming user profile for a user named art, but when he logs in, he is told that windows cannot locate his roaming profile and that he will be logged in using local profile information. what must you do to ensure that this roaming profile is effective wherever art logs in? a. create a home folder for art. b. share the directory which holds his profile. c. map a network drive to his network profile directory. d. use the %username% variable when naming his user directory. answer   b

45. a user receives confirmation every time a print job is successfully printed to a shared printer connected to a windows 2000 server computer. she would like this feature disabled. how? a. disable the " notify when remote documents are printed" option on the server that hosts the printer. b. enable silent mode on the printer driver on the server that hosts the printer. c. disable bi-directional support on the printer's driver on the user's computer. d. on the user's computer, disable notification in the advanced printing features section on the advanced tab of the printer driver's properties. answer   d

46. a user named janet reports that she can send faxes through her locally installed fax modem on her windows 2000 professional computer, but cannot receive faxes. you log on to her computer as a local administrator. what should you do? a. use the set service manager to start the fax service and configure the fax service to start automatically. b. run the fax service manager. 0select the fax management server and enable the device to receive faxes. c. open the fax applet within the control panel to reinstall the fax service and configure fax services to receive faxes. d. open the fax applet within the control panel to add a fax operator and enable the fax device to receive faxes. answer   b

47. how do you ensure that other computers on your lan are only granted http and ftp access through the shared internet connection on your computer? (choose two) a.

set the internet connection sharing application type 'ftp' to use remote server port 21. b. set the internet connection sharing application type 'http' to use remote server port 80. c. set the internet connection sharing application type 'http' to use remote server port 25. d. configure your shared internet connection to disable on-demand dialing. e. configure your shared internet connection to disable lco extension. answer a,b 48. you configure a computer to dual boot between nt workstation 4.0 and windows 2000 professional. nt is installed on a 4 gb partition on drive c. windows 2000 is on a 4 gb partition on drive d. you enable a disk quota on drive d to prevent users from saving data to the d drive, but notice that this is not effective. what should you do to prevent users of the computer from saving to drive d? a. configure drive d as a dynamic partition within nt workstation 4.0. b. use windows 2000 professional to enable encrypting file system on drive d. c. use windows 2000 professional to configure ntfs permissions on drive d to deny access to the users. d. reinstall windows nt workstation after configuring disk quotas. answer c 100Test