<http://www.freelamp.com/new/publish/aboutus> To tell the truth, it is not my choice, when my company decide to purchase Suns machine, hence got Solaris 8 and the vendor send these training course and exam voucher. The will-be Oracle certification the same reason. The first time I decided to get MCSE was Nov. 1998, I then got certificated in May, 1999. And I know much about TCP/IP in Windows environment, including DHCP/WINS/DNS/NETBEUI. This time I got Solaris 8 , I know NFS/NIS/Cache FS/Auto FS/Pseudo FS/Jumpstart. I am glad that my knowledge depositing day by day. I am sure I can benefit much from the ongoing Oracle training course. All the knowledge make me know them all more clear and know Linuxs disadvantage more. Thats not mean I will give up Linux, on the contrary, I always believe Linux can step into enterprise gradually, and at last dominant the enterprise server market(from low end to high end). We Chinese got a saying: "Know enemy and know self both can always win wars" , so I am knowing enemy now. :-) OK, to be honest, to pass the exam, you must prepare it very carefully. A shortcut to success is "BrainDump", to thank those people contribute to the braindump, I think its my turn now to make some effort have more people certified. Before post the detail braindump, I will paste my mail to first. ----- mail begin ----- I passed Sol 8 Part II on Nov. 22. It is a very clear day in Shanghai, China. I got 48 correct in 61 Qs. Days before, there is a braindump so-called for SOI. 8 Pt 2, full of NIS Qs, and it scares me at first, I use another several hours to read related documents on NIS . And that proved very wrong and stupid. Later I know that some of the Qs are for Sol. 7 , not 8. In my opinion, the 8 Pt 2 Qs is very easy. You just master the contents on the course book if you join the Suns class. I will post a detail braindump soon. BTW: I want to tell all guy, dont lose your heart if you didnt see the "Congratulations!" and the two bars when you finished your test. I was at a very low mode when I didnt see it at first, and go to the printer to prepare tearing the papers, And I saw the test status: pass, Alas! I was very high then. So guys, be lucky! Read carefully at your book! ----- mail end
