From: David Guan, Research and Development DirectorDate: 23 November 2000Subject: Visit of Chairman The chairman of our corporation is going to visit our company next Monday 27

November to discuss the pricing policy for our new product. He will arrive at 10am and please attend the welcome reception for him at 10.15am. Thanks.Summary of memo writing (page 78)1. Candidate CAll three parts of the task are completed and it is the correct length. The language is accurate and appropriate except for one mistake. (hire instead of book/reserve)2. Candidate BB completes two parts of the task but does not give location details. The note is too long. The writer includes unnecessary information (e.g. to discuss a contract with us). The language is generally accurate although the first sentence is long and wordy. The language is also inappropriate at times (e.g. cheers!).3. Candidate AA completes one part of the task only and does not give dates or location details. The note is short.

The style is inappropriate formal for a note (I am writing to inform you...etc.).
