Each passage is followed by some questions or unfinished statements. For each of them there are four choices marked A, B, C and D. You should decide on the best choice and mark the corresponding letter on the Answer Sheet with a single line through the center. Passage 1 Questions 1 to 5 are based on the following passage. “ High tech ” and “ state of the art ” are two expressions that describe very modern technology. High tech is just a shorter way of saying high technology. And high technology describes any invention, system of device that uses the newest ideas or discoveries of science and engineering. What is high tech? A computer is high tech. So is a communications satellite. A modern manufacturing(生产) system is surely high tech. High tech became a popular expression in the United States during the early 1980 ' s. Because of improvements in technology, people could buy many new kinds of products in American stores, such as home computers, microwave(微波) ovens, etc. “ State of the art ” is something that is as modern as possible. It is a product that is based on the very latest methods and technology. Something that is “ state of the art ” is the newest possible design or product of a business or industry. A state of the art television set, for example, uses the most modern electronic design and parts. It is the best that one can buy. “ State of the art ” is not a new expression. Engineers have used it for years, to describe the best and most modern way of doing something. Millions of Americans began to use the expression in the late 1970 ' s. The reason was the computer revolution. Every computer company claimed that its computers were " state of the art " . Computer technology changed so fast that a state of the art computer today might be old tomorrow. The expression " state of the art " became common and popular as computers themselves. Now all kinds of products are said to be " state of the art " .

Questions 6 to 10 are based on the following passage: Cheating: The income tax deadline (最后期限) approaches and some taxpayer 's thoughts turn to it. Test time approaches and some students ' thoughts turn to it. " You want something you can ' t get by behaving within the rules, and you want it badly enough you ' ll do it regardless of any guilt or deep regret~ and you ' re willing to run the risk of being caught. " That ' s how Ladd Wheeler, psychology professor at the University of Rochester in New York, defines cheating. Many experts believe cheating is on the rise. " We ' re suffering a moral breakdown. " Pinkard says, " we ' re seeing more of the kind of person who regards the world as a series of things to be dealt with. Whether to cheat depends on whether it ' s the person ' s interest " . He does, however, see less cheating among the youngest students. Richard Dienabier, Psychology(心理学) professor at the University of Nebraska in Lincoln, believes that society ' s attitudes account for much of the increase in cheating. " Twenty years ago, if a person cheated in college, society said: That is extremely serious, you will be 0dropped for a term if not kicked out permanently, " he says, " nowadays, at the University of Nebraska, for example, it is the stated policy of the college of Arts and Sciences that if a student cheats on an exam, the student must receive an " F ' on what he cheated on. That ' s nothing. If you ' re going to flunk anyway, why not cheat? " " Cheating is most likely in situations where the vital interests are high and the chances of getting caught are low~ " says social psychologist. Lynn Kahle of the University of Oregon in Eugene. 6.
