

07年3月公共英语一级模拟试题2（二）PDF转换可能丢失图片或格式，建议阅读原文

https://www.100test.com/kao_ti2020/165/2021_2022_07_E5_B9_B43_E6_9C_88_E5_c88_165743.htm .阅读理解：第一节：词语

配伍：从右栏所给选项中选出与左栏各项意义相符的选项。

51. People use it to write. A. bus 52. People get a lot of information from it. B. kitchen 53. You can have a meal here without cooking yourself. C. C.newspaper 54. People can buy all kinds of things there. D. restaurant 55. People travel in it. E. supermarket F. pen G.

bookstore 第二节：短文理解1：In western countries today, more and more foods have additives（添加剂）in them. What are additives? Additives are chemicals（化学制品）which are put into foods to give them color and taste, to stop them going bad, and so on but doctors say that some additives can be bad for us. Now lets look at how additives can be bad for our health. Take, for example, a little English girl called Sally Jones/ sally is two years old and quite an ordinary little girl. But when she was younger, she never went to sleep at night. She never got tired. Finally, Sallys parents took her to a special doctor. He said that she must never eat food with additives in it. He was sure that the additives had a very bad effect on her body, and made her too active（活跃的）. He was quite correct. As soon as sally started to eat foods without additives, she began to sleep well at night. Now she is the same as other little girls, except that she cant eat many foods that children love, such as ice cream, because they have additives in them. 56. Additives can reduce（减少）the cost of some food. A. Right B. Wrong C. Doesnt say 57. Doctors say that all additives are very bad for us. A. Right B. Wrong C. Doesnt say 58. Sally has been the same as any other little girl since she was born. A. Right B. Wrong C. Doesnt say 59. Sally could sleep well when she stopped eating foods with additives. A. Right B. Wrong C. Doesnt say 60. In the past, Sally ate a lot of foods with additives. A. Right B. Wrong C. Doesnt say 第三节：短文理解2： Passage one: My aunt Aggie often thought she was able to sine, but I am sorry to say her singing was terrible. One day she asked a piano-tuner (调音师) to come and tune her piano. He came, and when he tried to tune the piano, it seemed to be all right. However, he thought he had better do something though he would rather have gone away. So he went over it carefully and made a very good job of it. A few days later aunt Aggie rang up again to say she didnt think the man had done it properly. The mans boss was very angry, and I need hardly say the piano-tuner himself was very surprised. However, he went again to the house. Aggie said, “ Let me play it. ” So he heard her play it. It was perfectly in tune but she made him tune it again. The next day she rang up again and said, “ it is easy to see that your man doesnt know his job. The piano seemed to be all right when he was there, but as soon as I begin to play it and sing at the same time, it gets all out of tune. ” 61. How does aunt aggie sing? A. She was able to sing very well. B. She had a beautiful voice. C. She sang the songs out of tune. 62. Who came to aunt Aggies home and for what? A. A teacher came to teach her to sing. B. A piano-tuner came to tune her piano. C. A doctor came to operate her piano. 63. How was the piano when the piano-tuner checked it? A. It was damaged badly. B. It as very old. C. It was all right. 64. Why was the boss very angry? A. Because the piano-tuner didnt tune aggies piano. B. Because the piano-tuner was not able to tune the piano. C. Because he learned the piano-tuner didnt work hard and did much harm to his business. 65. Whats the main meaning of the story? A. If someone could not see his own shortcoming and was too strict with others, he would make a joke about himself. B. The piano-tuner was not fit for his job at that time. C. The piano was all right, but aggie couldnt play it. 100Test 下载频道开通 , 各类考试题目直接下载。详细请访问 www.100test.com