Could the use of animals in scientific experiments be justified? Well you may get totally different answers when you are in different positions. Suppose you are a pet owner. When someone asks to take away your lovely dog for a scientific experiment, certainly you will cry out and claim that he or she is a devil. This is just the reaction we are expecting for it is love and concern for others that make human beings human, and this kind of love and care are not only existing among ourselves, but also between us and the nature. Can you imagine living in a world where people kill animals for any purpose they like? Can you expect people loving each other in that kind of world? It must be a nightmare. However, to get a fuller view of such a controversial issue, you should put yourself in another position. Scientific experiments using animals have contributed a lot in medical development. Thanks to that, cures for many kinds of disease, which have killed thousands of people in the past few decades, have been found now and many lives are saved. If you are one of those with that kind of disease, will you support using animals in scientific experiments that can save you or will you give up your hope of life? The majority chooses the former and it is reflecting the rule of the nature the fittest survives. Every creature on the earth is a gift. We should love and protect them while at the same time make good use of them, since it is not only for our own sake but also for the sake of the harmony that existing in the nature world. 100Test 下载频道开通，各类考试题目直接下载。详细请访问
