Twenty years ago, U.S., European and Japanese compashy.ting whipped by Chinese competitors. Over the past six years, the market share of foreign TV makers in China has 0dropped from 70 percent to less than 20 percent. Matsushita opened the first microwave-oven plant in China in 1995. Two years later the Chinese compashy.er major TV maker, exported 11 million units from its Chinese factories last year. It has more Southeast Asian facshy.enon. Who hasnt heard of the Middle Kingdoms startling economic growth (8 percent annually), its enormous consumer market (1.2 billion people), the investment ardor of foreign suitors ($40 billion in foreign direct investment last year alone)? China is an economic marvel. According to Nicholas Lardy of the Brookings Institution, a Washington D.C.-based think tank, "No country has expanded its foreign trade as fast as China over the last 20 years. Japan doubled its foreign trade over a 20-year period. Chinas foreign trade as quintupled. Theyve become the main producer of labor-intensive manufacturing goods in the world."But theres been something missing from the dazzling China growth storynamely, the Chinese multinational. No major Chinese companies have yet established themselves, or their brands, on the global stage. But as Haier shows, that is starting to change. After 100 years of poverty and chaos, of being overshadowed by foreign countries and multinationals, Chinese industrial companies are starting to make a mark on the world. (170 words)
