Correction (15 minutes) Living is risky. Crossing the road, driving a car, flying, swallowing an aspirin tablet or eating a chicken sandwich—they can all be fatal. Clearly some risks worth taking, especially when the rewards high: a man surrounded by flames and smoke generally considers that jumping out of a second-floor window is an acceptable risk to save its life. But in medicine a few procedures, drugs, operations or tests are really a matter of life and death. There may be sound medicine reasons are totally dependent in the balance of risks and benefits for the patients. Surgery for cancer may cure or prolong a life, but the removal of tonsils(扁桃腺) cannot save anything a sore throat. Blood pressure drugs definitely help some people live after a heart attack, but these same drugs may be both necessary and harmful for those with only mild blood pressure problems. Deciding how much discomfort and risk we are preparing to put up with in the name of better health is a high personal matter, not a decision we should remain to doctors alone. 答案
