cse9000,cse9001,cse9002,ims9001.my second semester: cse9020,cse3400,cse3000,cse5220。 check <http://www.csse.monash.edu.au/courseware/>for detail.Here for every course there is one or two course coordinator, students can come for help if they got some problems on study, so he is the person who knows most about your course. You can check the handbook for your course on web and find out who your course coordinator is, then search on Monash web site to find his email, then you can contact him. I did that when I was in China.To be an IT professional may be hard, but to take the coursework is not hard at all. Especially for MAIT and MIMS, especially at the beginning. But it ' s hard to find a job.Here are some good resources:You can check the handbooks for graduate students(You may already know): <http://www.monash.edu.au/pubs/...s/postgrad/pg0496.htm>You can check most of the subjects provided by CSSE here (Please have a look, you can know everything about the subject here: <http://www.csse.monash.edu.au/courseware/>You will find that most of the subjects are easier than you thought. Some IT professionals may feel them baby talk. For MAIT, cse9000,cse9001, cse9002 are 3 of the 4 subjects in the first semester, very easy. You can check out for yourself following above link. Another subject I took in this list is cse3400, a bit hard.cchenannn ; 100Test 下载频道开通 , 各类
