I went to the Consulate General of USA in downtown Toronto at 8:00 am, yet my appointed time is 9:00 am. so many people lined outside, yet inside more people. some were chinese, yet a lot of other people from other countries. all the visa applicants are suspected with the immigration tendency. so a lot of peoples applications were refused on spot, especially a lot chinese people. a chinese girl applied for student visa and was refused on spot. a chinese mans job visa seemed also to be rejected. i waited inside along with a long dragon for nearly 49 minutes. it was the first time to enter an consulate general office or embassy office to do that. i am a little bit nervous, yet the officer inside the N0.6 window scanned my face seriously. I could no help feeling a little cooling, and part of the confidence went away. she told me that i was single and just for the current company for four months. she could no give the visa immediately. I had to sit nearby seats to be asked. I sat at the nearby seat area, so many people already sat there. nbsp ; 19 minutes later, I was called to N0.1 Windows. it was a more experienced immigration officer, with a more sharpened nose. she has a green little eye and a black glass, yet she seemed capable of speaking some chinese. she questioned my situation again and she told me that she had no way of offering visa to me. I said that our company had nearly 100 machinese to operate and a lot of old machines needed to be replaced by new ones. So we were currently very busy. I had a very closer tie with the company and Toronto. I had no excuse of staying in USA, without returning Canada. I would like to give her an expression that I was so familiar with my current job. Suddenly she questioned me why I applied visa so early, yet my preferred date of entering USA was the Christmas season. I never prepared of that beforehand and I was mixed. 我定定神, and I told them that: I work, you work. I rest, you rest. currently I am during a three-week vacation, so I have the time. suddenly she questioned me again: I just worked for four months, how can they give me vacation. I told her that during the vacation, I had no pay. I told her that she could phone to my current company. I already told my company that I would apply for visa that day. The woman finally did not make any call. she had no words to say. so I finally got the visa. My passport was left in the office. Normally I could get the visa next day, yet which was USA's Independence Day. So I got my passport on Jul 5th. colorful American visa was attached in my passport. I was so happy just like having a flower in my heart. Next year when I returned back China, I will go from USA, which will be much cheaper air ticket from New York or Detroit than from Toronto. Furthermore I can go to anywhere in the USA with the visa. I will normally have a visit to USA before I go back to China, good?
