STUDY PLAN I am very pleased that I have successfully being offered an unconditional place in MSc Business Analysis and Finance at the University of Leicester. The course commences 22 September 2003 and ends on 30

September 2004. In order to adapt to the study life quickly, I plan to attend the Study Skills Course in English for Academic Purposes from 26 August to 19 September. After graduated from the university, I am working as an A/R accountant in a foreign-funded company in the Semiconductor industry. Our company is a leading company and has a very excellent working team. Most of them have very good educational backgrounds. During closely cooperating with my workmates and international investors, I realized that I lacked some knowledge of international business strategy, corporate finance and risk management. In order to secure a competition advantage of my personal ability and avoid lagging behind to today ' s job market, I believe that continuing a graduate study is very necessary. By searching the appropriate subject massively from Internet, I found that programme of Business Analysis and Finance is arranged properly and systematically and suitable for my requirements. I will learn eight Core modules plus one option economics module. After teaching semesters, I will be entitled to complete a dissertation to verify what I have learned. My parents and I have the amount of more than RMB***,000 available. This is adequate to my expense during my master study period in UK and will set my heart at rest to concentrate on my study. After finishing my study in UK, I will come back to my company in China. Our company is in a prosperous industry and under its progress of overseas expansion. It is more eager than ever to adopt the advanced business, finance expertise with overseas educational backgrounds. Therefore, I think the China market is the most promising market and I will get an ideal job and a higher position in such an active job market when I come back. Marinabiannbsp ;
