There ' s not much she doesn ' t know about shopping, anywhere in the world.Coco: I love to go shopping in Rome, right by the Spanish steps. They have a little kid ' s shop with all the designer clothes for me, that ' s where I love to go. And Paris, the Lebon Marche, I loved it there. I loved all the places in Europe to shop. I think what age I felt like I was marketed by companies was when I was 7 years old, and the GAP had the " Aalentine ' s Day " shirts. They had little cat shirts with the little 3)tiaras on. I would buy those, and I would love them. Coco ' s mother likes to help her daughter to shop, it ' s a regular part of life for Coco to go to one of her favorite designer 4)boutiques.Coco: I ' m trying to 5)reinvent myself, you know, you can try to reinvent yourself in there. And it ' s key, because they have so many different styles.Coco ' s mother: My opinion is meaningless, ha, ha, ha. I ' m just here to pay.Coco: I ' m trying to look very 6)cute and sexy, because I haven ' t looked like that in the past.Coco ' s mother: You don ' t think? Coco: Do you like this? Coco ' s mother: No!Coco: I like it. Coco ' s mother: Ha, ha, OK. Coco ' s mother: I go shopping, one way or another, almost every day, but with Coco, pretty much every weekend. She loves to go uptown also. And this is our favorite teen shop. This is a little Versace outfit. That is very cute on you. Occasionally I like some Versace, but only the 7)couture 8)stuff, the other stuff is a little too 9)trashy for me. Coco: You know if you had something from Versace, it ' s nice, you know, to have something from a designer. It ' s nice, it just makes you feel good. And I know it ' s not like the 10)anecdotes you want to make you feel good, but it ' s true. I think I might buy it even if it wasn ' t a Versace top, because I think it looks good on me. I think it fits me nicely, and I think it ' s the fun 11)thrifty top that I want.Coco ' s mother: I think it ' s very stylish. Coco: And style is everything. For Mary Ellen Cashman.Coco ' s mother: Ha, ha. What did I add? A jewelry box for Coco ' s Tiffany jewelry. Are you happy? What Coco learns now, will define her behavior in the luxury-shopping world of the future. 100Test 下载频道开通 , 各类考试题目直接下载。详细请访问 www.100test.com
