There may be 0drops of dew on flowers and bushes, and spider webs, too. The 0drops of dew sparkle like jewels when the sun shines on them. Drops of dew look like 0drops of rain, but they do not fall from clouds as rain 0drops do. They are formed from the water vapor in the air when moist air strikes a cold object. Dew does not stay on very long after the sun comes up. The grass and other things on which the dew has formed soon get warm. Then the dew changes into water vapor again. This same water vapor may become dew again the next night if the weather is calm and fair. 100Test 下载频道开通，各类考试题目直接下载。详细请访问 www.100test.com
