On my way home one hot summer day I suddenly felt sick. My stomach ached terribly. I must have eaten something unclean or just too much of something, I thought. Once home, I found I could hardly walk. I was weak and my face must be pale then. It shocked my parents. Before they could rush me to a hospital I fainted. As I came to, I found myself lying in a small room, surrounded by my mother and two of my best friends. They asked me if I felt better, and I said “ Yes ” and thanked them. In fact, I still felt weak, upset and dizzy. Then a nurse came in, took my temperature and blood pressure, gave me a shot of some medication and ordered me to take prescribed medicine thereafter. A few minutes later a physician entered. I asked him what was wrong with me. He comforted me and said, “ What did you have for lunch today? ” “ I dined out. ” “ And then? ” “ I ordered two dishes of raw seafood, three dishes of onion ring and a coke. ” “ You must have been very hungry, right? ” I felt embarrassed. “ Eat on time and dont eat too much. That guarantees your health. ” From then on I have kept in mind that piece of advice from a doctor. I believe health spells wealth and I am sure health makes everyone happy and hopeful, too. 第五篇： It is impossible to find people who have never fallen ill. Illness is certainly a painful experience to everyone. I myself seldom fall ill. however, a few days ago I was seriously ill. That day, when I woke up in the morning, I did not feel well. I had a headache and was weak all over and had to excuse myself from school. Worried, mother took me to see a doctor. First, the nurse of the hospital took my temperature and then the doctor told me I should take a longer rest and take medicine regularly. If I followed the rules strictly, said the doctor, everything would be alright. That day I did nothing but lie bed and felt sorry and lonely. In the evening many classmates of mine came to see me after school. They sent me fresh flowers along with their love and I was deeply touched by their love and I was deeply touched by their love and I was deeply touched by their warm friendship. I have recovered now and have also learned from this experience how important it is for people to keep themselves healthy. 100Test 下载频道开通，各类考试题目直接下载。详细请访问 www.100test.com
