

Christmas is coming! PDF转换可能丢失图片或格式，建议阅读原文

https://www.100test.com/kao_ti2020/376/2021_2022_Christmas__c86_376203.htm

A Syrian boy dressed as Santa Claus takes part in a march to celebrate Christmas in Damascus December 23,2007.

(Agencies) Shoppers walk past Christmas decorations inside a shopping mall in Vina del Mar city, about 75 miles (120 km) northwest of Santiago, December 23, 2007. (Agencies) Syrian children dressed as Santa Claus hold candles as they take part in a march to celebrate Christmas in Damascus December 23, 2007.

(Agencies) Lantern makers wait for customers, a day before Christmas eve, in their stall along a street in Manila December 23, 2007.

(Agencies) Kyrgyz schoolchildren return home after taking part in The Best Santa contest in the village of Tash-Moinok, 30 kilometers (19 miles) north from the capital Bishkek, December 23, 2007.

Santa Claus has become more popular in the predominantly Muslim Central Asian republic and some Swedish experts insist Santa should have his home based somewhere in the mountainous ex-Soviet state because it is the only place from which he can reach on time every home on earth during the short Christmas period.

(Agencies) U.N. peacekeepers from Spain decorate an armoured personnel carrier for Christmas at their base near Marjayoun village in south Lebanon December 23, 2007. (Agencies) 100Test 下载频道开通，各类考试题目直接下载。详细请访问 www.100test.com