One of the themes that are common to the Chinese people is about the value of the plants to china. On the question of whether it is better to consider the wheat the most important plants or to regard other kinds of plants, such as corn, bean, lettuce, etc., as the most valuable plants, some people assert that the wheat is most important to our country, while other people believe that the other kind of plants is. As a matter of fact, the issue of what is the most valuable plant to china is a complex issue. On balance, however, I tend to agree that the wheat, which is cultivated all over our country, is the most valuable to our country. My view can be greatly substantiated by the following discussions. The main reason for my view is that the wheat is beneficial to Chinese people. It provides us the necessary food for our normal lives. We eat it from breakfast to dinner, from desert to cookie. There are a lot of food made of the wheat, for example, the noodle, the dumpling, and the bun, which are all common food in china, are all made of the wheat. Besides, the wheat can be cultivated in most lands in our country. Unlike the rice, which only can be planted in southeast and south of china, the wheat can survive all kinds of the environment, so that even the most severe areas, such as the Sinkiang province can cultivate the wheat and supply the food to its people. Last but not least, the wheat plays a pivotal role in Chinese export trade, because the wheat is one of the most important items to be exported to other countries. Apart from its benefit to Chinese people, another reason for my view is that the wheat is good for the animal too, especially for domestic animals in our country. For instance, Cow eats the leaves and stems of the wheat as its food. Even more, people will use the stems and leaves of the wheat to fill domestic animal 's barns. It means the wheat is not only useful to Chinese people, but also it is beneficial to Chinese cattle. Admittedly, it is true that other plants, such as corn, bean, lettuce, etc., are important to our country too, after all they also can provide our food, vegetables, or flowers to us. However, considered that China is still a developing country and to provide enough food to our people is the overwhelmingly important issue to our country, even more, considered that wheat is the most widely cultivated plant to provide our food, wheat is most important plants to our country. In sum, although other plants may have some kinds of importance to our country, in the light of the above discussion, it can be safely said that the wheat plays the most pivotal role to our country, comparing with other kinds of plants. Moreover, our country should plant more wheat all over the country, in order to ultimately solve our food problem for either people or domestic animals.
