People should sometimes do things that they do not enjoy doing. Use specific reasons and examples to support your answer. The issue of whether people should sometimes do things that they do not enjoy doing is not a controversial one. Although most people agree that if they can, they prefer to do what they are interested in, they admit that, in practice, they sometimes have to do things that they do not enjoy doing. In the following analysis, I would like to present several examples to support this position. Above all, people sometimes do things that they do not like when they are at home. It's well known that home is the most important place for people in their life, because home can give them much more comfort, security, and dependence than any other place can provide. However, the relationship among members in the family will not keep pleasing if everyone insists on doing what he or she wants to do without compromise. For example, it is the time that the father is interested in watching CNN headline-news-channel, whereas, the son wants to watch Disney-cartoon-channel at the same time. Unless the family has one more TV set, the father or the son has to give up, the performance that is not joyful to one who compromises. It is obvious that people do something that they do not enjoy doing at home in order to keep the relationship among family harmonious. In workplace, the example that people do things that they do not enjoy doing is much more pervasive. For example, a website designer has contrived a very good website for his customer, who, however, is not interested in the idea the designer hold. What can such designer do? To insist or to give up? Practically, in some conditions, the designer has to give up and follow the idea of his customer, who pays the money, even if the idea of the customer is very unattractive or implausible. To give up ones own creative idea and follow the opinion he is not love is one of the most difficult things for people to do, and it is obvious that sometimes, they have to do so, especially in the course of work. In addition, in the general life, people sometimes have to tell white lie, which is in fact not the people intend to say. For example, when facing a boy whose dog died, people always say that his dog has gone to heaven and will be happy there. Every adult knows that the word is not true, but people lie because they do not want boy so sad. Moreover, can you believe that a secret CIA, FBI or CTU agent tell anyone else that he is an secret agent, but not a phony waiter, banker or Nissan dealer. Apparently, almost everyone admits that telling a lie is not the enjoyable thing people want to do, in the real life, however, people have to lie in several conditions that telling truth will brings disadvantages or dangers to themselves or to someone else. In conclusion, although in general, people are more favorable to do things they do enjoy doing, in practice, they should sometimes do things that they do not enjoy doing, the things that are probably beneficial to their life. 修改意见：俺也来看看 还是老习惯，先看中间部分吧，. 反正开头结尾大家都写得很顺溜的 Above all,
