Correction (15 minutes)Traditionally, the American farmer has always beenindependent and hard-working. In the eighteenth century farmerswere quite self-sufficient. The farm family grew and made almostnothing it needed. The surplus crop would be sold to buy a new --71.items in the local general store.In 1860, because some of the farm population had moved to --72.the city, yet eighty percent of the American population was still inthe country. In the late nineteen century, farm work and life --73.were not much changed from that they had been in old days. The --74.farmer aroused at dawn or before and had much work to do, with --75.his own muscles like his chief source of power. He used axes, --76.spades and other complicated tools. In his house cooking was done --77.in wood-burning stoves, and the kerosene lamp was the onlyimprovement on the candle. The familys recreation and social lifechiefly consisted a drive in the wagon to the nearby small town or --78.village to transact some business as well as to chat with neighborswho had also come to town.The children attended a small elementary school (often ofjust one room) to that they had to walk every day, possibly for a --79.few miles. The school term was short so that the children could not help on the farm. Although the whole family worked, and life --80.was not easy, farmers as a class were self-reliant and independent.答案：71. nothing --- everything72.

Correction (15 minutes)Living is risky. Crossing the road, driving a car, flying, swallowing an aspirin tablet or eating a chicken sandwich-they can all be fatal. Clearly some risks worth taking, especially when the --⁶¹. rewards high: a man surrounded by flames and smoke generally considers that jumping out of a second-floor window is an acceptable risk to save its life. But in --⁶². medicine a few procedures, drugs, operations or tests --⁶³. are really a matter of life and death. There may be sound medicine reasons are totally dependent --⁶⁴. in the balance of risks and benefits for the --⁶⁵. patients. Surgery for cancer may cure or prolong a life, but the removal of tonsils(扁桃腺) cannot save anything a --⁶⁶. sore throat. Blood pressure drugs definitely help some people live after a heart attack, but these same drugs may be both necessary and harmful for those with only --⁶⁷. mild blood pressure problems.
Deciding how much discomfort and risk we are preparing --⁶⁸. to put up with in the name of better health is a high --⁶⁹. personal matter, not a decision we should remain to --⁷⁰. doctors alone. 答案
