Due to the bad soil, the land is barren. However, I have a barn full of animals that supply me with all the food I need. There ' s nothing more satisfying than basting pig meat over a barbecue. The weather is pretty good. There is always enough rain to fill my water barrel. But sometimes, a fierce storm will batter the barn all right. The rough life I lead has made me look and feel like a barbarian. The heat from the sun has baked my bare skin brown. I haven ' t been to the barber for two years. As a result, I think I would be bashful if anyone found me. I don ' t have any money but I don ' t need it. You can ' t buy anything here. You can ' t even barter. However, I ' m not completely out of touch with civilization. Every few months, I can hear the sound of an ocean barge passing in the distance. I always run to the ocean side to see it. It reminds me that I ' m still human. You might think that I ' m barely surviving but the opposite is true. This is the only place where I can escape the horrible war in the city. In my mind, I can still hear the barrage of gunfire smashing through our wooden barriers. I can still remember spending months, helplessly barricaded in the basement of one of our many, once beautiful, baroque style buildings. My life is more peaceful now. Perhaps after the war, I ' ll find my way back home. What ' s that I hear? It ' s the bark of my dog. I ' ve got to run. Another barge is passing by.
