According to a recent research made in Shanghai, nearly half of the students interviewed would like to study abroad. “ Chinese children are eager to go abroad (去外国) to get a wider view, less academic (学业的) competition or even family honor, (荣耀) ” said Chen Yi, who has lived in the US for 16 years. “ But life in foreign countries can be hard for young people. Because they have to face a culture shock and language problems. ” However, these are not always the most difficult things. To most children, controlling (控制) themselves when studying alone in a foreign country is a big challenge. Zhang Jia, a 16-year-old student, entered a high school in Australia last October. To his surprise, his teachers there seldom pushed students to study. And usually there wasnt much homework. “ In this education system we have more free time and space for thinking, ” said Zhang. “ But if you dont know how to manage your time and money, you will not have an easy life. ” Some students spent their whole years money in the first two months. Besides, they did not pass their exams. “ Studying abroad at a young age can help students learn foreign languages and broaden their minds, but students and parents should know about the challenges, ” Chen said. “ If you want to study abroad, try to talk to someone with overseas experience. (海外经历) Make sure that you are prepared—both mentally(精神上) and financially (经济上). ”百考试题编辑整理 100Test 下载频道开通，各类考试题目直接下载。详细请访问 www.100test.com
