What are the reasons of it? How to solve the environmental problem? Even three-year-old children know about severe problems brought by devastation of environment in cities around the world. However, senses of indifference and avoidance are written on every face of almost all citizens who are not, indeed, unconcern about this global problem. Those people who do not think that they can do something to rescue the whole world have reasons of both individual and government. From individual perspective, environmental problems may be too big or too complicated for them to solve, even if they are keen on dedicating to environmental protection after the campaign and publicity from environmentalists and government. It is certainly true. After all, it is a long-term outcome before citizens realize seriousness they result in. For example, styrofoam cups or plastic bags which they toss away will be never biodegraded until after at least 500 years. On the other hand, they also nurture the concept that it is too negligible for environment to use disposable products and throw those living rubbishes, which is convenient and, somewhat, fashionable to be in line with international trend. So, this could be done by a process of education which points out the way a smaller family can mean an environmentally friendly lifestyle for family members, as well as less strain on the government 's, perhaps very limited, resources. But, it does not mean government issue can be neglected on this point. It is, in general, thought that it is the obligation of government to face status quo, rather than depending on underage 's volunteer work or even publicity on festival concerned once or twice per year. Therefore, some laws and regulations may be constituted to solve the problem, such as the regulation of staggering the use of odd-and-even-numbered cars in cities, which is currently used in Beijing during 2008 Olympic and Paralympics Games. And, energy-saving light bulbs can be subsidized by government to those families with poor economic background. In conclusion, environment problem affects every aspect of our life. So, joint efforts may be made by both government and individual. 相关链接：2月雅思最新考试动态及相关信息预测 1月雅思考试网友机经汇总月刊 百考试题特别推荐雅思新手入门指导 100Test 下载频道开通，各类考试题目直接下载。详细请访问 www.100test.com
