LL: Hey, Li Hua, what do you think of this sweater? Its got several holes. Should I toss it? LH: 你要把这件毛衣扔给我装箱？你自己说有好几个洞了，还留它干嘛？扔了算啦！我要收藏 LL: Thats what I meant. I didnt mean to toss the sweater to you. I mean to throw it out. To toss something means to throw something out. LH: 噢，原来to toss it就是把东西扔了的意思。这件毛衣真的该丢了。其实还有一些衣服你也该丢掉了。 LL: Hey, I didnt ask your opinion of my wardrobe. I just wanted to know if I should toss that one particular sweater. LH: 哎！我也只是帮你忙啊。如果你不要我帮忙，那就算喽！我才不管你衣柜里哪些衣服该丢，哪些不该丢呢！ LL: Okay, since youre so eager to help: Should I toss this pair of shoes, too? Theyre really old and gross. LH: 这还要问啊？你这双鞋又旧又脏的，当然该丢掉喽！还有你那件黄的T恤衫也可以扔了。 LL: No, Im going to use that as a rag for cleaning my new apartment. I hate to toss something that I can still find a use for. LH: 你想拿那件破衣服来当抹布，废物利用，这倒是不错。 Hey，Larry, 冰箱里的这些苹果都烂了，可以扔掉了吗？ LL: Yes, Im afraid that there is quite a bit in the refrigerator that needs to be tossed. I buy things and then Im never home to eat them. LH: 我也是，经常买了东西不吃，最后又扔掉。也许下回该买些冷冻食品，不然，让食物烂

了又扔掉，好浪费哟！ LL: You're right. It's really terrible to toss out food. LH: 好吧！我先帮你清一清冰箱里的东西，我可以把烂掉的食品全都扔掉吗？ Can I toss them out? LL: You can toss out whatever you think needs to be tossed.  LL: Well, how do you like my new digs? LH: Digs? Dig 不是“挖”的意思。你在说什么啊？这是你的新公寓耶！ LL: My new "digs" is my new apartment, Li Hua. "Digs" is slang for one's place of residence. LH: 嗨，dig不是挖土，挖洞的挖吗！你用的是名词，还是多数。 Digs，所以，这就是指一个人住的地方。 LL: That's right. My new digs is a bit empty now, but once I move my stuff in, this should be a nice apartment. LH: 嗯，现在看起来是有点空空荡荡。可是我担心你东西搬进来以后就会乱了。 LL: Hey, I'm not that messy! I like to keep my digs nice. LH: 对，你不算太乱，但是也不见得是那种非常整洁干净的人。 LL: Okay, you're entitled to your opinion, but I am also entitled to disagree with you. I happen to be very proud of the way I maintain my digs. LH: 我当然可以保留我的意见咯！你也完全可以不同意我的看法。其实，你的家只要你自己满意就行了。说正经的，Larry你要不要我帮你布置新家，your new digs? LL: Let's just take care of moving first. Once all of my stuff is here, we can talk about decorating. LH: 那也是，还是先搬完了再说，再不赶快搬，今晚你恐怕得在旧公寓里睡觉喽！
