"The power of our individual and collective ImagiNation holds the key to achieving a sustainable future for the worlds cities," said Peter Tesch, commissioner-general for the Australia Pavilion. Challenging many of its international stereotypes, the pavilion will reveal the reality of Australia, a dynamic country whose cities enjoy clean air and water and have a strong sense of environmental amenity, inhabited by imaginative, clever, engaging and accomplished Australians. The pavilion is divided into three parts incorporating inter-related exhibitions called "Journey," "Discover" and "Enjoy." 我要收藏

Tesch encouraged children to participate in the "Name the Mascot" competition which is inviting Chinese people to suggest an appropriate name for Australias official mascot for the Expo - a kookaburra - the native Australian bird. "We encourage all children to exercise their imagination by entering our Name the Mascot competition to win a chance to visit Australia and enjoy first hand Australias exciting city life and beautiful natural environment," he said. 100Test 下载频道开通，各类考试题目直接下载。详细请访问 www.100test.com
