windows 95 q: you have a windows 95 computer with a harddrive that keeps getting out of memory messages and high disk activity (paging)...you had another harddrive and have more room for your files but you are still having high disk activity on the first harddrive... what can you do with the swap file? four choices... i chose to move it to the new drive..the other choices concerned reconfiguring the size of the swap file. q: you upgrade your computer that has 2 harddrives from win 3.1 to 95...one of the harddrives is not functioning well...what can you do? i said disable 32 bit hard disk drivers. q: a person complains that his application (new app that was just added) is running slow. you choose to use system monitor to monitor the application? what do you choose to monitor? kernel.processor %. q: your computer has user level security...carol has access to the //server1/public folder, but, does not have access to the //server1/public/customer folder. how can you give her access to the customer folder? the answer i believe is by providing explicit permissions to the customer folder. the other choices that i can remember were...provide implicit permissions to the customer folder..provide full access to the public folder(this option was not correct because you only want to give her access to one subfolder (customer) not all of the subfolders. 100Test 下载频道开通 , 各类考试题目直接下载。详细请访问
