Almost half of the 3,000 people surveyed admitted they often correct someone if they say something in the wrong way and a quarter of people said they thought mispronunciation showed a lack of intelligence. 我要收藏 参与调查的3000人中，几乎一半的受访者表示他们会经常纠正别人错误的发音，四分之一的受访者说，发音错误容易给人知识水平不高的印象。 But suprisingly in the list of admissions, Britons admitted that February was the 12th hardest word to spit out. 令人惊奇的是，英国人把“二月”一词推上榜单，位列最难发音的第十二位。 A spokesman for Spinvox, a voicemail to text message service, which carried out the research, said: "Phenomenon is very hard to say because of the structure of the word." 语音通信公司Spinvox进行了这项调查。该公司的发言人说：

“ Phenomenon这个字很难念是因为这个词本身的结构。 ”

"There are some real tongue-twisters in the list and its understandable how many people can get confused when pronouncing certain words." “ 这次的列表中有一些单词确实很饶舌，所以许多人在念这些单词时感觉困难是可以理解的。

” "A word one person finds easy to say, maybe difficult for the next person. Although its worrying that some people find basic words such as February difficult to say." “ 某些人觉得好念的单词对其他人来说却可能并不好念，就像一些人觉得“二月”之类的基本单词很难念。 ” The company found that other difficult words to feature in the poll include "regularly" at 11, "particularly" at 13 and "prejudice" at 17. 该公司发现的其他一些引人注目的难读的上榜单词包括位列11的“有规律地”、位列13的“尤其”和位列17的“偏见”。 More than a third of people even say they avoid using words they know they struggle with altogether so they do not end up looking stupid. 超过三分之一的受访者表示，为了不犯傻，他们会避免使用自己念不清楚的单词。 100Test 下载频道开通，各类考试题目直接下载。详细请访问
