appeared in the editorial section of a local newspaper: “ This past winter, 200 students from Waymarsh State College traveled to the state capitol building to protest against proposed cuts in funding for various state college programs. The other 12,000 Waymarsh students evidently weren ’ t so concerned about their education: they either stayed on campus or left for winter break. Since the group who did not protest is far more numerous, it is more representative of the state ’ s college students than are the protesters. Therefore the state legislature need not heed the appeals of the protesting students. ” 44
