我要收藏 Visitors to the Dutch Pavilion at the 2010 World Expo will enjoy 26 exhibitions by looking through the windows of 26 "small houses," Walter van Weelden, Netherlands Expo commissioner general said yesterday at the Bureau of Shanghai World Expo Coordination. The 5,000-square-meter pavilion, known as Happy Street, comprises 26 small elevated houses. The houses will line a 400-meter pedestrian street that curves in a figure of eight, a lucky number in China. The houses will be closed given the estimated 7 million visitors expected and the size of the buildings, Weelden said. One of the houses will host a small water purification station and visitors will be able to sample the purified water. The houses represent the innovation, culture and sustainability of Netherlands, Weelden said. The whole pavilion is an open structure, reflecting the countrys open-minded features. A large crown-shaped building in the pavilion will house a VIP lounge for business events, he said, adding that the pavilion will also feature tulips, windmills and clogs, which the country is famous for. The construction of the pavilion is expected to be finished around October 31. 100Test 下载频道开通，各类考试题目直接下载。详细请访问
