Translation and Human Translation In recent years, all kinds of electronic dictionaries and translation software have been developed. With the development of technology, these electronic dictionaries and software can help us translate not only words and phrases, but even sentences and paragraphs. So some people come to the conclusion that machine translation will replace traditional human translation. However, I couldn't agree with this argument.

Admittedly, translation machines and software bring much convenience for our study and work. With them, we needn't bother to live through the heavy dictionaries. However, machine translation has its disadvantages. First, generally speaking, translation software only can give direct translation, which is sometimes not in accordance with the original articles in logic and meaning.

Second, some people depend on electronic dictionaries and software too much, which is unfavorable to their improvement in language ability.来源：考试大 Considering the above mentioned, I think that machine translation cannot replace human translation, but it is a good complementary to human translation. Therefore, we should combine machine translation with human translation effectively. 相关推荐：大学英语四级考试写作指导四方谈 英语四级英译汉的目的、要求和评分 英语六级考试写作技巧 100Test 下载频道 开通，各类考试题目直接下载。详细请访问 www.100test.com
