In foreign relations, the Chinese people have always believed that “ the strong should not oppress the weak and the rich should not bully the poor ” and advocate that “ all nations live side by side in perfect harmony. ” The Chinese hold that “ oneshould be as inclusive as the ocean, which is vast because it admits hundreds of rivers ” and call for drawing upon the strength and useful experiences of other people. China commits itself firmly to peaceful development, accelerating its development by upholding world peace and promoting world peace through its own development. China firmly pursues a strategy of opening-up for mutual benefit and win-win outcomes, genuinely willing to enter into extensive cooperation with other countries and to embrace everything that is useful and draws on the strength of other civilizations. It will pursue peace and development through cooperation so as to promote the building of a harmonious world characterized by enduring peace and common prosperity. 相关推荐
