I: Where is your birthplace? C: I was born in Xinjiang Uygur Autonomous Region. I: Where is your native place? C: My native place is Tianjin. I: Are you a resident of Beijing now? C: Yes. I have been living in Beijing since my childhood. I: Where is your domicile place? C: My domicile place is Taiyuan. I: What is your nationality? C: Im Chinese. I: What is your nation? C: My nation is the Han. I: How large is your family? C: There are four of us including my parents, a younger sister and me. I: Do you spend much time talking with your family? C: Yes. Its said theres a generation gap in the world today, but I dont think this is the case at our house. We all work at taking time to talk with each other. Especially at mealtime, we all eat and talk together. Meals are very lively at our house. I: Your application form said that you have a younger sister. How do you get along with each other? C: We get along well with each other. She is 6 years younger than me, and she is right now studying for college entrance exams. She asks me a lot for advice on how to study and things like that. Besides, we do many things together, such as going swimming, mountain climbing and soon.
