independent? 及格版范文 Nowadays, there is a popular phenomenon that more and more parents are doing all things for their children. For example, they will offer them everything like food or clothes at home. They even send them to school and arrange for everything at dorm for them. As a result, their children can do nothing by themselves. About this, there are many factors accountable for the phenomenon. On one hand, there is only one child in many families, so most parents regard them as their “ Adam ’ s Apple ” . So, they would try all best to satisfy their needs. As parents, they should do their best to encourage their children ’ s independence. For one thing, they should allow their children to do those things that they can manage themselves. For instance, washing, making the bed or making decisions. For another, students themselves should develop an independent concept that they are mature enough to do things freely since they have grown up.
