RAJ: Holy crap! Look! LEONARD: Is that who I think it is? HOWARD: It can ' t be. What would Summer Glau be doing riding the train? LEONARD: Maybe John Connor ' s aboard and she ' s protecting him from an evil Terminator. SHELDON: Unlikely. That ' s a television show, Leonard. LEONARD: Thank you. SHELDON: Of course, if SkyNet actually did exist in the future, a perfect way to infiltrate and destroy mankind would be to send Terminators back posing as actors who have played Terminators in popular films and television series, lulling us into a false sense of security, i.e., "That ' s Summer Glau "from The Sarah Connor Chronicles. No, Summer, don ' t kill me!" I ' m pro-robot! Ahh!" LEONARD: At least he ' s off the train crap. SHELDON: Whee! HOWARD: Sheldon, I owe you an apology. Taking the train was a stroke of brilliance! I ' ve actually got a shot at a Terminator. RAJ: Oh, please. When it comes to Terminators, you ' ve got a better shot of scoring with Arnold Schwarzenegger. HOWARD: You ' re overlooking something. I have 11 hours with her in a confined space. Unless she ' s willing to jump off a moving train, tuck and roll down the side of a hill, she will eventually succumb to the acquired taste that is ward Wolowitz. LEONARD: My money 's on tuck and roll.
