(body odor)。 LL: Li Hua, are you feeling better now? LH: 你看，我现在都能搬东西了呢！ LL: Whoa, be careful! But hey, it looks like you ' re back on your feet again! LH: Back on my feet? 我脚没有受伤啦，只有手而已。 LL: No, that ' s not what I meant. To be back on your feet is a general saying referring to a person who has recovered or healed from an illness. LH: 啊，你说I am back on my feet是指我手臂养好了，恢复了，是吗？ LL: Yes. I understand why you would think I was talking about your feet, though. A sick person is usually in bed all day. Therefore, when we say that a person is back on their feet, that means they can get off the sick bed and walk around feeling healthy. LH: 喔。原来to be back on your feet是说一个病人已经不用再整天躺在病床上，可以自由走动的意思。 LL: That ' s right. Can you give me an example? LH: 好啊。 Larry, I really hope you get back on your feet soon. LL: You...you hope that I will get well soon? But I ' m not even sick... LH: 可是你脸色好差喔。 LL: That ' s not true. Ohhh...ughhh...what is that smell?? LH: 有不好闻的味道吗？在哪里？ LL: Li Hua! You didn ' t shower the whole time you were in the hospital did you? I can smell your B.O. LH: B.O.? 你在说什么啊？我可是天天洗澡呢！ LL: But that smell...B.O. is body odor. I don ' t think you showered, Li Hua. LH:

你说我有体臭？！怎么可能呢？我真的每天都清洗呢。 LL: Then what 's that smell? LH: 我真的不知道你在说什么。难道..... LL: See?! You didn ' t shower! LH: 如果不是我的话，那一定是你！ LL: It cannot be me. I shower everyday and I put on cologne this morning. Li Hua, maybe you ' re not back on your feet yet. You can ' t even remember if you showered or not. LH: 怎么这样说。我只不过是手骨折，记性并没有变差啊。 And no, I do not have B.O. LL: Fine then. But hey, you ' ve learned two slang expressions today! Back on your feet and B.O. do you know how to use each? LH: 嗯。 B.O. 就是体臭的意思。 For example: Larry had such horrible B.O. that I almost passed out. Larry的体臭难闻到我差点昏过去。 LL: I do not have horrible B.O.! You were the one who smelled like... LH: 举个例子嘛，干嘛那么认真。那么back on your feet是康复的意思。 我可以这样说， My hand is back on my feet, 我都康复了。 LL: You used B.O. correctly. But the phrase, back on your feet, refers to a person. You cannot say your hand is back on its feet. Instead you should say that you, the person, are back on your feet. LH: 喔。 To be back on your feet是形容康复的人，而不是形容受伤的部位。所以我得说， I am back on my feet. LL: That ' s right. But oh, that smell! It ' s okay, Li Hua. You can tell me if you didn ' t shower in a while. I understand. I won ' t mind. LH: 可是真的不是我的B.O.啊。啊！我知道了！一定是这个！（Li Hua holds out a bag of food.) LL: Oh my goodness! What is that? LH: 这是臭豆腐！其实很好吃的，而且又香。你是因为没吃过所以不习惯它的味道。 LL: Stinky tofu? Why do you have stinky tofu? LH: 喔。刚才爸妈来过了。知道我很爱吃臭豆腐，

就带来给我吃的啊。来，你也尝一块。 LL: Phew! Thanks but no thanks. I don ' t want to make people think I have terrible B.O. But hey, I ' m sure glad to see that you are back on your feet! 今天李华从Larry那儿学到两个常用语，一个是back on your feet, 表示一个人“恢复健康”；另一个是B.O. (body odor), 也就是“体臭”的意思。更多推荐：#0000ff>英语口语：你有“直升机父母”吗？#0000ff>英语口语：积极向“上”#0000ff>英语口语：正合口味 100Test 下载频道开通，各类考试题目直接下载。详细请访问 www.100test.com
