Some cities insist on keeping ancient buildings. Other cities want to destroy them. Which do you prefer and why? Well, I prefer the former one. First of all, ancient buildings are reminders of our past. They tell us where we came from and how we get to where we are now. They provide us with the opportunity to appreciate the achievements and the dreams of our previous generations. They recall our goals and dreams. Secondly, we cannot afford not to preserve the historical buildings because they not only bring us aesthetic enjoyment but also have their own architectural and historical values. They are unique in design and we should preserve them for research. In addition, they can attract many tourists and thus contribute to the economic prosperity of the cities.

Which do you prefer, e-reading or traditional reading? (07. 6.30 考题) Well, as far as I am concerned, I prefer traditional reading. First of all, it ' s very comfortable to read traditional books and it doesn ' t hurt your eyes as e-reading does. You know computer screens give out radiations which may have some bad effects on your eyes. Second, traditional books are portable. You can read a book whenever you have the time and wherever you are. Most importantly, I like the feeling of turning the pages and taking notes on books. In traditional reading, when I find an important point or an interesting thing, I like to underline the words and write down my ideas. I think this is a sort of interaction between the author and myself and this can increase my enjoyment and deepen (improve) my understanding of the book. Some people prefer to eat out. Others prefer home cooked meals with their family. Which of these types of meal do you prefer? Use specific examples and details for your preference. (06. 1.14 考题) Well, I prefer home cooked meals. First, the food is definitely clean you don't have to worry about the sanitary problem. Second, the food is cheaper than in restaurants and you have a free choice of food. You can cook what you like most and enjoy the process of cooking the meals together with your families. Third, I like the feeling of enjoying my meals at home with my families. I like the warm and fragrant atmosphere of home. There is no noise, no hurly-burly, just my family members who love me most, we can talk about many things in the meal and this would enhance our feelings. 以上这些新托福口语实例是针对不同话题进行的一些阐述，大家可以作为参考。相关推荐：
